

Refund policy

CACE membership fees

The Canadian Association of Communicators in Education (CACE) will not normally refund membership fees once they have been paid.

When the fees have been paid by an organization on behalf of an individual and that individual leaves the organization before the end of the membership year, CACE will transfer the balance of the year's membership to the new person in the position, upon the written request of the organization.